

Abstract of the Science and Love Book:

What is something which has led or will lead the life evolution? What is something leading human being to the sublimity? In its extensive meaning, love is something which goes up and down, a basis for motion in the world. Love is the origin of motion, and motion shows the love. Love is accompanied by heat or heat generation. There is no phenomenon we may know the heat doesn't play role in because the heat is motion, and motion is love. Science development is not an exception in this case, and this is love that caused the science evolution. Therefore, we try to symbolically indicate an example of role of love in science.

In one side of the world, loving, literature and culture is mainly considered and in other side, world of science and technology. In this symbolic example, we are the messenger of this fact that all sciences, techniques, art and literature shall be converged, and this divergence shall be reduced in order to soften the human life space and the love governs the cosmos. Thus, we imagined in this book a nature originated in reality. In order to describe the convergence of science, technique and love, art and literature, I wrote a paper and intend to publish it in a place of the world because I believe that they are not related to each other but they warmly welcomed it in the other side. Hence, I expressed a trip from this side to presentation to that side then returning back in an integrated language of love and science. I talked about the flight in both technical and scientific, and also literary and spiritual aspects, moving to the sky in both scientific and also literary and cultural, from art of technology, technology, colorful and colorless iron fly and artificial fly from scientific and literary interactions. At the end, I concluded that the integration and convergence of science and love, and this is the convergence of thought and experience of ancestors and modern technology that help us come to the real perfection.
